Planes Stay Away From Hanoi Area

By ROBERT TUCKMAN
SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — U.S. warplanes stayed away from the Hanoi area Thursday as controversy continued to rage around the world over American attacks in the vicinity of the North Vietnamese capital.

With missions over the Communist North limited to 58 by bad weather, American pilots made two attacks in the neighborhood of Haiphong, North Vietnam's chief port. But most raids reported by the U. S. Command were in the southern part of North Vietnam, with a few in the area of Dien Bien Phu, near the Laotian frontier.

Rainstorms and a low ceiling were reported in the Hanoi area. The U. S. Command denied Communist charges that American bombs hit inside Hanoi on Tuesday and Wednesday. The command said a "complete review of pilot reports and photographs showed that all ordnance expended by U. S. strike aircraft was in the military target areas" five miles south and six miles northeast of the city.

News Strike at Memphis Is Settled

MEMPHIS (AP) — The two major Memphis newspapers agreed early today to a new contract for the American Newspaper Guild, calling for higher salaries and increased fringe benefits. The settlement came shortly before newsmen and clerical personnel were scheduled to go on strike against the two newspapers owned by the Scripps-Howard chain.

evening Press-Scimitar agreed to increase the top minimum salaries from $155 to $180 a week over a two-year period and to provide $15.50 a week in benefits, including pensions, over a two-year period.

In addition, the agreement called for four weeks of vacation after 10 years of service with the newspapers, beginning in 1968.

The agreement was made retroactive to Dec. 10, when the old contract expired.

A Thursday midnight deadline had been called earlier in the week by the guild against the newspapers, but the deadline was extended late Thursday night to 6 a.m. today.

Dina Merrill Gets Divorce

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Movie actress and socialite Dina Merrill has obtained a divorce from Stanley M. Rombach Jr. in Juarez, Mexico, according to reports from court officials in the neighboring city of El Paso.

It was reported Thursday that the 1st Civil District Court of Juarez awarded custody of the couple's three children to Miss Merrill in a decree signed earlier this week.

Miss Merrill brought suit on the grounds of incompatibility.

You're Middle-aged If a Few of These Apply in Your Case

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Yep, there's no doubt about it. You are middle-aged if —

You talk to yourself while shaving.

One pair of glasses is no longer enough. There is the pair for the pocket, and the spare pair kept in the desk at the office, and the urge to have a third pair at home.

You can remember every day you spent in kindergarten, but forget your wedding anniversary.

In your wallet is a card that names your allergies, and your blood type, and the diseases that the doctor of your choice estimates your flesh is heir to.

Also in your wallet is a calendar for 1954 which your insurance agent gave you in 1953 and you haven't gotten around to discarding.

You can't recall writing or receiving a love letter since the Johnstown Flood.

Prejudices surface by reflex. You don't have to read all the details of a murder case to decide who is guilty.

Your fingernails seem to be thinner than they used to be, and turn blue quicker in cold weather.

The barber quits telling you he can help save your falling hair.

More and more often you prefer to read the short items rather er than the long items in your newspaper, unless the long item is an obituary.

Each day seems to trudge forever, but the years go by like butterflies.

One of the first chores of morning is to clear your throat. Then you are ready for the next problem.

Before eating a piece of breakfast toast you turn it over to see if it is darker on the other side.

You find yourself listening more to the inside voice of yourself than the outside voices of others.

Now and then you hear clearly what your wife is saying, whether or not you agree with her verdicts.

Your office desk is a museum of the future, full of papers you have glanced at and have postponed taking a longer look at until later. Why make up your mind now?

One of the things you are certain you dislike is a plastic Christmas tree. You feel the same way about wax fruit or artificial flowers.

Before you buy anything you inspect its price tag.

You hate to throw away anything only partly worn out. Isn't it worth keeping a little longer? Doesn't it have a salvage value?

You are not so sure of where you are going, but, wherever it is, you are in less of a hurry to get there. You want to continue the vista from your window.

That is middle age.

Sister of Publisher Succumbs

HARRISON, Ark. (AP) — Miss Agnes Josephine Newman, 70, one of the owners of the Times Publishing Co. Inc., publisher of the Harrison Daily Times, died at a hospital here Thursday night following a heart attack.

She was a sister of John R. Newman, editor of the newspapers.

She was a Methodist and a member of the Arkansas Press Women's Association.

Other survivors include a sister, Mrs. Mary M. Clark of Houston, Tex., and a nephew, Frew Newman of Independence, Mo.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

Russia Made Skin Tests in Space

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union tested the effects of outer space on human skin prior to launching the first cosmonaut by sending up skin samples from three doctors in an unmanned satellite, the Soviet labor paper Trud disclosed today.

Trud said small pieces of skin were taken from the shoulders and legs of three Soviet doctors, placed in sterilized glass bottles and launched into space Aug. 19, 1960, to test the effects of cosmic rays.

Three days later, the article said, the skin was returned to the laboratory of the Experimental Biology Institute in Moscow and grafted back on the doctors, along with other tissues which had not been exposed to space.

No Recanvass of $1 Bale Cotton Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department decided Thursday against recanvassing a referendum in which cotton growers apparently voted to assess themselves $1 on each bale of cotton.

The assessment would finance a research and market and cool through early Saturday with scattered showers but mainly in the south half and ending early Saturday, becoming partly cloudy in the afternoon. Lows tonight 34 to 46, Highs in the 50s Saturday.

LOUISIANA — Partly cloudy to cloudy through Saturday. Scattered showers tonight ending Saturday. A little cooler Saturday and west portion tonight. Lowest tonight 34 to 42 west and north portions, 42 to 48 southeast portion. Highest Saturday 52 to 60.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
An Agriculture Department spokesman had said earlier Thursday a decision had been made to recanvass the votes to determine what portion of the cotton crop was grown by those voting for the program and what portion was grown by those opposing it.

The decision to make a recount on the cotton-volume basis was made because of the closeness of the vote, the spokesman said.

However, an interagency difference over the recanvassing task led to a decision by Undersecretary of Agriculture John Schnitzler that the volume of production could be made later only in event the final official count of growers fails to show the necessary two-thirds majority.

Cuba Faces a Rationed Holiday

By ISAAC M. FLORES

HAVANA AP — This sun-baked Caribbean island's eight million inhabitants face a rationed holiday season again this year.

Although there is no official position on the issue, Cuba's Communist regime softens religious observance of Christmas.

Santa Claus is classified as a dirty capitalist and his memory is being erased from the minds of those who remember that he used to bring them gifts on Dec. 25.

The emphasis is on year-end fiestas and the Jan. 1 celebration of the eighth anniversary of Fidel Castro's assumption of power.

There will be a few toys, nuts and candy for children and some wine, rum and possibly an extra quota of meat and beans for their parents. But there are indications there will be a few toys there will be less than the limited quantities available this year.

All holiday items — food, drink, toys and gifts — are rationed under the Communist system of "equal distribution."

The few holiday decorations in downtown Havana have no religious theme. Few homes show any indication of the day Christians celebrate.

Christmas or New Year's cards feature bells, flowers, country scenes, testimonials to Soviet-Cuban friendship and pictures of tourist attractions such as Havana's Merce Castle and its centuries-old cathedral.

The government put out a carefully worded statement recently that said, in effect, that only a few toys had been imported because of the drop in world sugar prices.

It emphasized that there will be as many toys as last year, but indicated many were locally produced. There will not be as many of the big items such as bicycles, trucks, toy rifles, skates, dolls and carriages.

Czechoslovakia and Poland supplied many bicycles last year. Communist China and the Soviet Union provided a variety of items from dolls to cheap metal guns, toy vehicles, airplanes and dollhouse furniture.

Prices are about the same as last year. Czech bicycles sell for 60 pesos, small table radios for 85, mixers for 65 to 75. A Cuban made baseball costs 7 pesos; a small fragile doll, 5 to 12 pesos. By official computation the peso is equivalent to $1.

The government is planning a year-end dinner for 50,000 to 100,000 people in Havana's Revolutionary Plaza — at 3 pesos a plate. It has made no announcement so far whether there will be any extra quotas of meat, fowl, rice or beans for the traditional Christmas Eve dinner.

Columbia, the female personification of the United States, is usually represented as a tall, stately woman dressed in flowing white robes and wearing a slightly peaked hat with five-pointed stars on it.

Ex-Sheriff Guilty of Tax Evasion

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — U.S. District Judge J. Smith Henley fined a former Jackson County sheriff $7,500 and placed him on probation for two years Thursday on a charge of evading income taxes.

Oscar L. Woodman of Newport, who served as sheriff from January 1961 through December 1964, previously had pleaded no contest to the charges.

He was accused of evading $4,108.50 for the year 1961 and $4,610.20 for 1963. The indictment was returned last August.

Henley said "except for his tax troubles, on the whole Mr. Woodman has been a pretty good citizen. . . and most of his neighbors think rather highly of him."

"Nevertheless, the court cannot let off scot free a law enforcement official who stands convicted of tax evasion," Henley said.

The judge said ordinarily he placed first offenders on probation without a fine, but that he was less lenient on Woodman because of his prominence.

Bob Thomas at the Movies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Sorry about this, Roy Rogers, but your son and namesake wants to pattern his acting career after John Wayne.

The lad is only beginning to act in films but he knows where he wants to go.

"I want to be like John Wayne," said Roy, gazing across the Paramount commissary at the veteran star, tanned from a movie location in Mexico.

"If I wanted to act like dad, I could. But that would just be an imitation, and I don't want to do that. I'd rather be myself, which is what John Wayne has always done. No matter what the role is, he's still playing John Wayne, and that isn't bad. People like what he is. Some day I hope people might like what I am."

Roy admitted that day may be far off. He is now 20, a muscular 6-foot-3 at 200 pounds, and he's willing to learn. So far his only experience has been in plays at Chatsworth High School in the San Fernando Valley.

"That was enough to make me decide I want to try acting," he said. "But I'm not counting on it entirely. I've taken an examination at a tool and die plant, and I qualified for a job. If the acting doesn't pan out, I'll have something to fall back on."

As you might gather, Roy had a practical upbringing. He was the son of the cowboy star and his wife wife, who died as the boy was born. After Rogers married his costar, Dale Evans, the family grew to nine children.

"But even though there were nine kids at home, none of us lost our individuality," said Roy Jr. "Dad always urged us to be ourselves and develop in our own ways."

Life among the Rogerses was spent mostly on the range — at the ranches in the San Fernando and Apple Valleys. All of the kids took turns at riding Trigger; in fact, the famed horse sometimes carried six at a time.

Whatever happened to Trigger? He died last year, and Roy Sr. had him mounted for display in a future Roy Rogers museum.

Wrappings for Christmas

By AILEEN SNODDY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Opening night is not too far away in millions of American homes. Families develop their own gimmicks to get the Christmas gifts unwrapped quickly.

Some open a present each evening for a week before Christmas morning, which was once the traditional time for unwrapping. Others with small children give in and open one present Christmas Eve . . . a ploy to get the wee ones to bed.

Even though most children recognize Santa-around-town as being from the Salvation Army or the local department store, the play-acting continues. It can be fun for all in a family.

One way to enliven one's spirit, often tired from too many parties and shopping sprees, is to create special wrappings. Children, especially, like interesting gift boxes. When these are done as fairy-tale characters, the gift boxes can go under the tree early. Youngsters can set them up as a pre-Christmas show cast and play games . . . without opening them.

Make a stage of ordinary cardboard boxes wrapped in foil or decorated paper. Small boxes wrapped in gold foil serve as the footlights and a valance or curtain is held up by paper roll cores. The cur-

DIFFICULT TO LIVE WITH

Dear Helen: My wife and I divorced two years ago so she could marry another man. I fought an expensive legal battle and finally got full custody of our two girls, ages 11 and 13.

Now I'm finding it difficult to make a living and keep the children with me. I tried having my mother live with us and it didn't work—I am a rather difficult person to live with and here's the reason why: Each year I figure up how much it will take to live, then work like the devil, 18 or 20 hours a day, until I make that amount. Then I take it easy the rest of the year. Sometimes I only have to work four or five months out of 12.

But I am now up to my ears in debt and will have to work longer. I can't leave two young girls alone like that. I won't return them to their mother. I've had no luck in finding a housekeeper. I'm too overweight (and too busy) to find a wife easily. Besides, what woman would want to take over and love two spoiled but very nice children and a man who is not easy to live with?

If you can solve my problem, Helen, my hat's off to you.—JIM

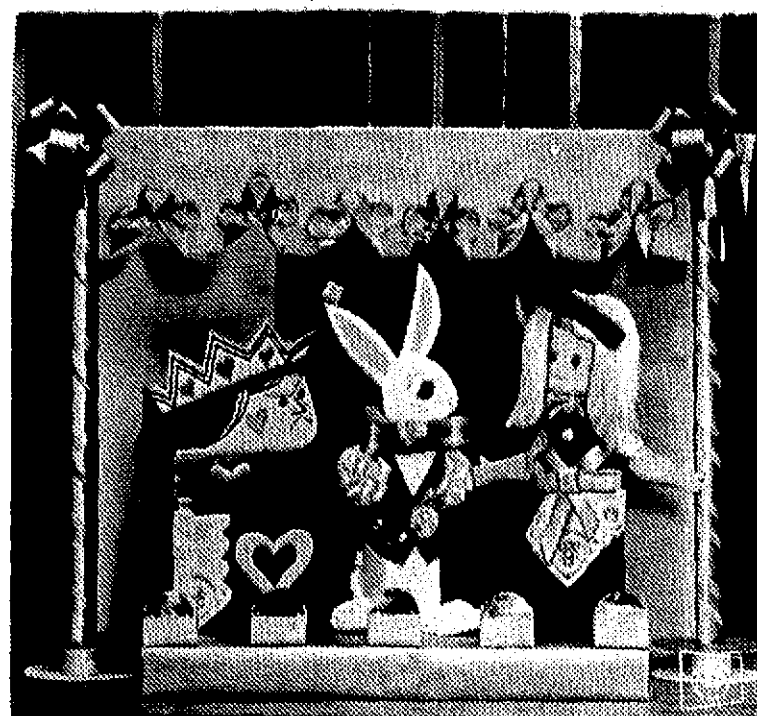

Dear Jim: You can solve your own problem, Jim, if you'll taper off to a normal working day, five days a week, 50 weeks a year. Then you'll have time for your children and for a real go at wife-hunting.

What woman could want an overweight "difficult" man with two half-grown children? I'd say about 500 gals would jump at the chance to "mother" all three of you into a fine, close-knit family. Perhaps one is waiting at your office. Why don't you slow down and start looking?—H.

Dear Helen: These telephone surveys about new products on the market! Today I spent a total of 40 minutes answering questions by telephone interviewers who wanted to know all about why I liked Brand X, Y, Z, and Q that big, well-known companies had just launched—everything from soup to instant pie. Each questioner took about 10 minutes of my time.

Not one of these gals offered even a free sample.

Now this is an open letter to tain is of ribbon streamers.

All the stars which the children can help create to fill the stage or make an under-the-tree audience start with boxes.

Clowns are popular and can be in any shape or size. Use a short, squat boxed gift, for example, and wrap it in a solid color with heart cut-outs for the body in a contrasting color. Hands, feet, head and hat are cut from cardboard, covered with paper or foil and stapled or glued to the box. Don't forget the nose, eyes and mouth, drawn on with a felt-tip marker.

Alice in Wonderland characters are fun to make, too, and in some way fit the season. Or, have a child suggest his favorite storybook or television character and create it simply as the clown was made.

Cut-outs from newspaper ads, letters from headlines, figures from the weekly or Sunday comic strips all may be used to cast a different grouping of Christmas characters. The cost is little but the effect worth any small expense.

Many companies DO offer free samples to cooperative telephone interviewees. All should! A housewife's time is valuable too.—H.

Dear Helen: I've just returned from visiting a good friend in another state. Her 18-year-old son is a talented artist. He specializes in painting girls. They all looked vaguely familiar, so I asked who he used for a model. My friend told me he looks in a mirror, and then it hit me: all those girls had HIS face, feminized.

He seems like a perfectly normal fellow, but isn't there something a little odd about this? His mother says he is just saving the price of a model, which is a good thing because such women are too worldly for him. Should I tell her a "worldly woman" might do him a lot of good?—MRS. R. Y.

Dear Mrs. Y: She'd never believe you. Whether he's odd or mod, this boy is not your problem, and if you'd keep his mother's friendship—keep it that way.—H.

Dear Helen: About these padding husbands. Here is what I witnessed nearly 50 years ago. For years my neighbor's wife received frequent spankings and sometimes they turned into beatings. Finally her instinct for self-preservation asserted itself. With a heavy cast-iron skillet she hit him on the head. Though partially dazed, her husband retaliated by giving her a black eye. But that was the last blackened eye the wife received! She knocked him cold with the second blow of the skillet. A healthier atmosphere prevailed in that house thereafter!—JKL

Long Awaited Musical Flops Suddenly

By JOHN VINOCUR

NEW YORK (AP) — "Breakfast at Tiffany's," the season's most awaited musical, has flopped before its $1-a-million guaranteed opening on Broadway. Producer David Merrick called the sudden closing "my Bay of Pigs."

Over $1 million in tickets had been bought for the show, an adaptation of the Truman Capote story. The money, Merrick said, would be returned. Merrick said he expected to take a $400,000 loss.

"Rather than subject the drama critics and the theater-going public to an excruciatingly boring evening, I decided to close," Merrick said Wednesday.

The show, starring television performers Mary Tyler Moore and Richard Chamberlain, had four preview performances in New York after weeks of tryouts in Boston and Philadelphia. It was scheduled to open here Dec. 26.

At Tuesday night's preview at the Majestic Theater, a quarter of the benefit audience walked out. Applause was thin and laughter scarce.

The only big guffaw came embarrassingly unwanted — when the script had a woman detective punch Miss Moore, playing Capote's hoyden Holly Golightly, in the stomach. Scenes, performers, dance sequences, and songs indicated in the program were not presented.

Capote, not involved in the production, disclosed reservations about it but said the show was "a really faithful adaptation."

Hope Girls in Upset of Stephens

BY RALPH ROUNTON
Hope Ladycats blasted their way into the semifinals of the Hope Holiday Tournament by upsetting Stephens 48-43, setting up a semifinal battle with Kirby, 45-34 winner over Waldo. Jumping to an early 5-0 lead, the Ladycats went cold and fell behind 12-8 at the quarter.
Stephens, adding to its lead with balanced scoring, outpointed Hope 12-10 in the second period and led 24-18 at the half.
A determined Hope five, lead again by outstanding guard play and control of the offensive backboards, came into the second half fired up. Led by Carol Anthony, Hope cut into the six point deficit but Stephens went back into the lead 32-31 with a quarter remaining.
It was all Hope from then on. Scoring 15 free throws, the Ladycats took the lead and never lost it. Guard play held Stephens to five points in the final period while Hope scored 17.
Carol Anthony was leading scorer for Hope with 24. Kathryn Coleman had 15; Gail Hartsfield who pulled down many crucial rebounds, had 8. Jo McKamie scored 1. Pointexter made 15, Arrington 12 and Autrey 10 for Stephens.

Kirby had no trouble with smaller Waldo, leading all the way in a 45-34 win. Kay Dunlap had 29 for Kirby and Elaine Dixon 18 for Waldo.
Tonight at 6 p.m. Bradley plays Spring Hill in a semifinal game; at 7:15 Hope tangles with Kirby and at 8:30 Stamps and Cale boys play a semifinal contest.

To Offer Way to Fill Vacant Co. Offices

ENGLAND, Ark. (AP)—Rep. W. F. Foster of Lonoke County said Thursday he planned to introduce a proposed constitutional amendment in the next legislature that would provide a clear method of filling vacant county offices.
Foster said his proposal would stipulate that a special election be held to replace officials who die in office or are otherwise ineligible. He said that under his measure the governor could make a temporary appointment if there is too little time for an election prior to the date that the term commences.

Dodgers Are Trying to Replace Sandy

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Dodgers, whose starting staff was depleted by the retirement of Sandy Koufax last month, strengthened their already deep bullpen Thursday by swapping southpaw Nick Wilhite to the California Angels for relief specialist Bob Lee.
Another veteran reliever, 36-year-old Dick Hall, went to the Philadelphia Phillies for cash plus a player to be named later. The Cincinnati Reds traded southpaw pitcher Jim O'Toole to the Chicago White Sox for outfielder Floyd Robinson just before the Thursday midnight deadline.
The Dodgers' acquisition of a 25-year-old right-hander who appeared in 61 games for California last season, gives them four solid relievers. Phil Regan, Ron Perranoski and Bob Miller are the holdovers.

Arkansas Outdoors

ARKANSAS OUTDOORS
By GEORGE M. PURVIS, Chief Information-Education Division
LITTLE ROCK.—Hasty cleaning and dressing of fresh-killed wild game not only results in loss of highly edible meat, but has possibility of causing food poisoning. Wild game meat is characterized by its high blood content which favors decomposition, and this tendency is greatly increased when subjected to careless and improper handling, asserts Dr. Harvie Ellis in a recent issue of the Arkansas Animal Morbidity report.
If wild game is not field dressed promptly, intestinal putrefaction may pass over into the abdominal walls and impart a green to bluish green color to that area. Such a condition may adversely affect the quality and taste of the meat and may cause food poisoning. Opening of the body cavity will dissipate body heat and help keep game from spoiling. All game should be bled as thoroughly as possible.
Game birds should not be piled in a heap in a vehicle, but should be spread out as widely as possible to allow air circulation and cooling. Fish should be sealed and drawn very quickly, and absolute cleanliness is a must. And while it looks nice to haul in a big buck atop the car hood, it's the worst place to stow the animal because of the engine heat. Use the car top, advises Dr. Ellis.

In judging the meat of game for food, he cautions, use the same general principles required for passing on the acceptability of the flesh of domestic animals.
TRANSPORTATION OF WATER FOWL
LITTLE ROCK.—According to state and federal regulations, a duck hunter can have in his possession his legal limit of birds while going from his hunting area to a place of temporary or permanent storage, and they need not be tagged. But if one person is transporting ducks for other hunters or possesses ducks of another, then each limit must be tagged and the tag must bear the hunter's signature, address, hunting license number, the number and kinds of ducks, and the date such birds were killed. In addition, all ducks must have at least one fully feathered wing attached until it is delivered to a commercial processing place or to the place of permanent storage. Commercial processors of ducks are required to keep accurate records, which shall include the same information as above.
Duck hunters are reminded also that all duck hunters 16 years of age and older must have a federal duck stamp and it must be validated by his signature across the face of the stamp in ink.

NEW G & F PROGRAM

The program will be on every Thursday night at 7 to 7:30. It will be hosted by George Purvis, "it will be our objective to make this program informative, educational, and entertaining."
"Arkansas Outdoors," a 15-minute program on channel 4 in Little Rock on Saturday nights at 6:15, is now in its seventh year and will continue to be telecast also.

Boston Wants to Wrap Up League Title

By HAL BOCK
NEW YORK AP — Are'n't we surprised if the Boston Patriots, who'd like to wrap up the American Football League's western Division crown against New York Saturday, try to do it primarily on Babe Parilli's strong right arm instead of Jim Nance's churning legs.
The Jets can be expected to concentrate their defense on Nance, who needs 120 yards to crack the 1,500 mark for the season. And that could leave some inviting targets open for Parilli.
The last time New York's defensive line faced Nance, it held the big fullback to 56 yards in 19 tries, one of his lowest outputs this season. That and the fact that Parilli completed 15 of 21 for 256 yards and three touchdowns against Houston last week could mean the Patriots will throw against the Jets.

what just turned 18, bought his first G & F hunting license this year, he noted two deer tags attached. He must have figured you were supposed to use 'em, and so he did.
On Oct. 12 he bagged an 80-pound doe with a long-bow and arrow. Eight days later he used the second tag after he dropped a 10-point, 150-pound buck with his bow and arrow. Both deer were checked by Clyde Bryant, Cleburn County wildlife officer who passed along this story.

ABOUT TRESPASSING
LITTLE ROCK.—Near one of the national refuges in Arkansas is a parcel of private land with this stern sign posted: "Private Property . . . Keep Moving." Signs like these are frustrating to many hunters who respect the landowner's wishes. But other hunters simply ignore the sign and wade right in, and it is this small number of hunters who create the problems.
One of the simplest ways to enjoy a repeat hunting trip on private land is to simply ask for permission, and then treat the other man's land as if it were your own.
"If our hunters would conduct themselves so that they could be welcome by the landowner, there wouldn't be any problem of trespassing," concedes Hugh Harkler, Director of the Game & Fish Commission.
Each hunter who takes a role in bringing about good relations between himself and the landowners is instrumental in keeping down signs like, "Absolutely No Trespassing, and I Mean It."

LEW ALCINDOR gets support, too like a game of checkers and the other side has too many kings
Warren is the only num sophomore on the starting five. He is a junior. In addition to four sophomore starters, Wooden's bench is built around four other sophomores and a junior.

"They remind me of UCLA's last national championship team (1965)," Bubas said. "They can explode at any minute."

The opposition's dilemma, of course, is the method to defense Alcindor. Duke used a sagging zone with three men on Lew. He scored only 19 points that evening but his teammates more than made up the difference.

"I just don't know what you would do," Bubas said. "If you concentrate on him, the others will kill you. If you concentrate on the others, Lew will do it. Only a Russell or a Chamberlain can play him. His moves are too good."
"So what defense do you use? What tempo do you play? He's just a fantastic problem out there."

"I'm sure their guards will be called on time after time to do what they did against us. The only chance is to catch them on a cold night and sometimes that can happen in those road games."

"You know, when anybody talks about UCLA there is a tendency to talk only of Lew and forget some other great basketball players."

Shackelford, at 6-5, 190, is a perfect forward who has an excellent shooting touch.

Warren and Allen have tremendous speed and Mike, particularly, has exceptional defensive moves. He also is an excellent passer. There is little question about Warren's or Allen's scoring ability. In the first UCLA-Duke game (when Lew had 19 points) Warren had 26 points and Allen 19. The Bruins won, 88-54.

Despite such a talented bunch, Alcindor, naturally, remains the key figure.

How good will he be in the future?

"All I can tell you," said UCLA assistant coach Willie Nauls, the former professional star, "is that he has matured tremendously in the two years since he left high school and he will mature even more. He wants to put on some weight and with 15 or 20 more pounds he's going to be even better (Lew is 7-1 1/2 and 230 pounds now)."

"The most important things we are working on with him are rebounding position and defense. His moves to the basket on offense have improved a great deal since I saw him in high school."

Nauls admits that Lew's teammates have a tendency to stand around and watch him at times.

"You can't," he said, "help being impressed."

It's when the opposition starts watching Lew too closely, however, that his teammates get their opportunity.

Then Lew starts watching them.

And he is impressed.

Russia's first basketball tournament was played in 1906; its first national championship in 1923.

What makes UCLA even more imposing is the thought of what the Bruins would be like if varsity holdovers Edgar Lacey and Mike Lynn were in the lineup. Lacey is out with a knee injury and Lynn is under disciplinary suspension. Lynn was the Bruins' leading scorer last season.
"When I look at their basketball team, I don't see any weaknesses," said Bubas, whose highly regarded Duke team lost twice to the Bruins on a West Coast trip. "It's

On both the offensive and defensive sides, the holding is becoming so prevalent that the referees would have to stop the game for penalties on nearly every play if they enforced the rules strictly.

"Often," says Ron Mix of the San Diego Chargers, "the infraction is such that it doesn't affect the outcome of a particular play. So it isn't called."

Ron Mix has battled up front for the Chargers for the past seven years. Five of those years he made the American Football League's all-pro team as an offensive tackle. (He has competed in all six league all-star games.)

Ron claims that he has earned his laurels: "I don't think too many players will say I hold. In seven years I've been called once for holding."

"The Chargers' theory is to avoid the penalty. Our coaches do not teach holding. Some players, however, use it as a major part of their game."

"Some of the offensive players who hold feel justified and probably feel they are forced into it by the type of play of the defensive man. By this I mean the defensive man is allowed to use his hands, but he goes beyond his

Lombardi and TV: 'Ugh!'

Vince Lombardi of Green Bay is a most outspoken spokesman against the dangers of pro football exposure. "Anybody who can sit and watch three football games on Thanksgiving has got to be nuts," he declares. "I knew the NFL when it was a peanut league. I wouldn't want to see us go back to that."

Lombardi also decries the fact that TV has hoked up the pro game. "They have most people believing it's complicated," he says. "Football is a simple game."

Winning in football is simple togetherness, if you believe most of the older Packers. Samples: Bart Starr, quarterback and eldest statesman. "The one great thing this club has going for it is there's tremendous love for one another on the ball club. There's a closeness here you can't describe."

Ray Nitschke, all-pro linebacker. "You know the city and state are behind you, and this has some bearing on your play as a Green Bay Packer." Willie Davis, defensive captain. "It's pride; pride in the unit, pride in doing the job. You feel the tradition and prestige, all things involved with Green Bay. And it really motivates a player."

And finally Lombardi—"Success is like a drug. You get hooked on it."

Nitschke, who wears horned rims and looks like an accountant out of uniform, adds, "Even the rookies, when they join this club, act like champions." It pays to be a champion, too—Nitschke doesn't even bother holding an off-season job because he can clear $500 a week just in speaking engagements around Wisconsin.

Willie Wood, the brilliant safety man of the Packers, comes from Washington, D.C., and remembers growing up in the shadow of Maury Wills, late of the Los Angeles Dodgers. Wills was better known then as a schoolboy football star and punt return artist, which happens to be Wood's specialty. "One game, they had a fellow named Avatus Stone (who later played at Syracuse and in the Canadian league) kicking to him. Three times Stone punted, each time 75 yards. And three times Wills ran the punt back, each time 80 yards."

Although Dallas was upset by Washington, Cowboy flanker Pete Gant caught a sensational long running pass by young Jerry Rhyme to set up an important touchdown. It was Gant who once described Rhyme's passing like this: "Every time Jerry throws a long one, they ought to signal a fair catch."

The only male in the Matte family of Cleveland, Ohio, who hasn't played ice hockey is Bruce Matte, the star quarterback for Miami of Ohio. The elder Matte was a National Hockey League performer. Older son Tom, now a halfback for the Baltimore Colts, wore skates for Ohio State's hockey team. "I did play," admitted Bruce, "when I was 10, but I got a front tooth knocked out and haven't tried it since."

Alan Ameche, former Colt fullback, returned to Baltimore for an old pros' reunion and stood on the field before the game watching the young bloods cavort. "Just look," said the Horse, "at all the money out there."

It's not the Michigan State game which sticks most vividly in Ara Parseghian's mind as the high spot of the 1966 Notre Dame season. "I remember most," he says, "the first game, which was Purdue, because it was on national TV and they had defeated us the year before. And the first game is the most important one because you can't win 'em all if you don't win that one."

Otis Taylor, a sensational pass receiver for the Kansas City Chiefs this year, used to be on the other end of the ball. He was a great high school quarterback and started at that position for Prairie View.

Between you'n'me, Ray Willsey, the head football coach at California, confesses the campus unrest at Berkeley has affected his team. "It probably cost us three fine prospects last year," he notes.

Looks for Grid Loopholes

right to use his hands by grabbing the jersey and shoulder pads.
"This is defensive holding, but it is seldom called. This gives the defensive player a tremendous advantage. Often an offensive player feels the only way he can equalize this advantage is to hold himself."

The holding only angers Ron when he is beaten as a result of it.

But he admits he is not without countermeasures which have to be more careful than guards. "The guards," he said, "are obstructed more from the view of the officials. The tackles are up close."

"Sometimes in watching the films it amazes me why certain teams aren't penalized more. The other teams probably say the same thing about us."

"Some of these guys do it so well, it's amazing. It gets to be like a fight. When the others start fighting, it's your duty to do it, too."

Ron Mix knows the rules—and he knows the loopholes, too. Most of them aren't studying to be lawyers. Ron Mix is.

THE DOCTOR'S MAILBAG
Lung Cancer Signs Vary From Person to Person
By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—I have a partially collapsed lung. What would cause this? Will it come back to normal and, if so, will it collapse again?
A—In some persons the small air sacs near the outer surface of the lungs merge to form a thin-walled bleb or bubble. This may burst spontaneously or during a fit of coughing or straining. When this happens some of the air in the lung escapes into the pleural space between the lung and the chest wall. The victim usually feels pain or discomfort in the chest and breathes in short gasps.
Until recently the standard treatment was to allow the victim to rest in bed for a week or 10 days, during which time the lung gradually re-expanded. It has been shown, however, that there is less danger of infection and chronic pleurisy and a quicker recovery if a needle is introduced into the pleural space and the air is slowly withdrawn, allowing the lung to re-expand at once.

In some persons there is a tendency to have recurrences and after about three spontaneous collapses of the lung, an operation to remove the weak spot is advised.

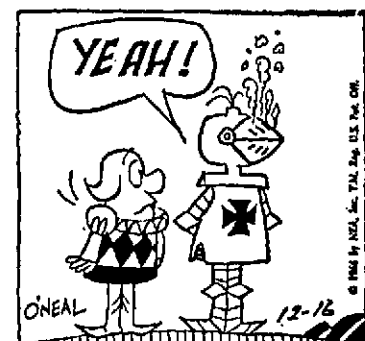

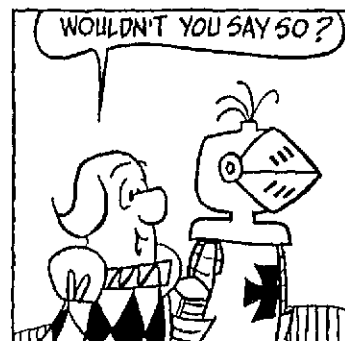

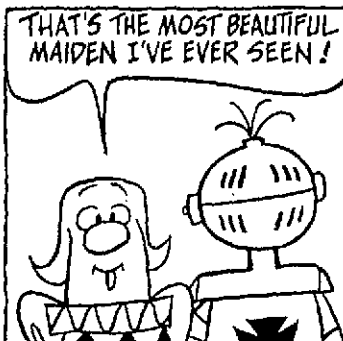

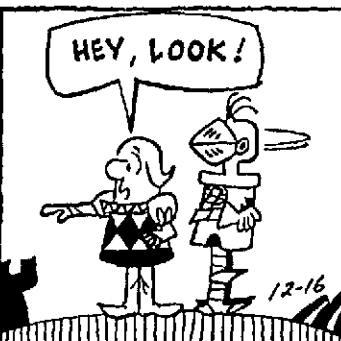

Q—What are the symptoms of lung cancer?
A—The symptoms vary in different persons. There may be a chronic cough, but this could be due to many other causes. That is why, when a cough persists for more than three weeks, you should have a chest X ray. In some persons the first sign is raising a little blood-tinged sputum several times a day. There may be a gradual loss of weight without any other symptoms or there may be a nagging pain in the chest. Pain occurs only when the cancer is encroaching on the pleura as there are no pain nerves in the lung tissue.

Q—Is cancer of the lungs contagious? Can it be cured? If you have it would it help to move to a warm, dry climate?
A—Lung cancer is not contagious. When it is discovered early in its course (usually by X ray taken in a routine examination) surgical removal will cure it. Climate will not affect it one way or another.

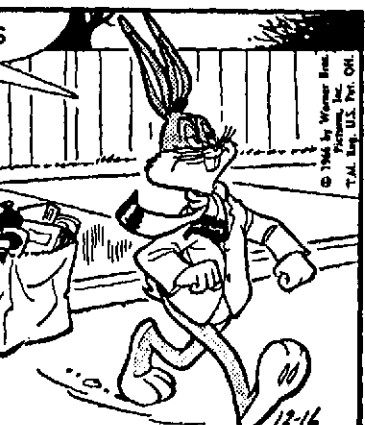

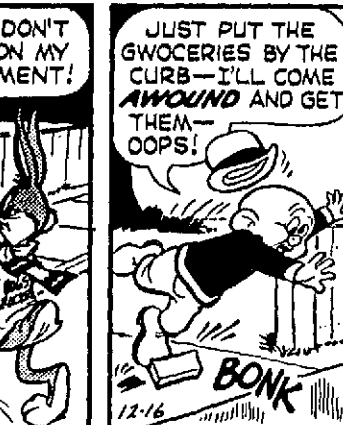

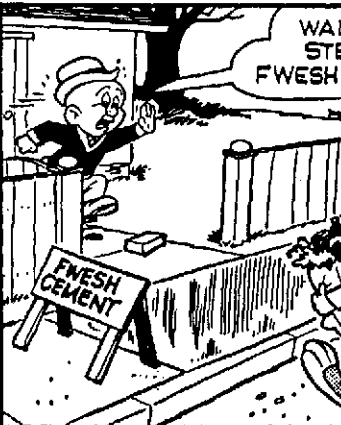

Q—My doctor found that I had a small calcified granuloma in my right and left lung. What does this mean? Can anything be done for it?
A—It sounds bad but it isn't. What you have is a couple of tubercles in your lungs. You can be glad that they have become calcified because that means there is practically no likelihood that they will spread. That is the body's way of combating tuberculosis. No treatment is necessary.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Safety, success in landing splash.

Earth as seen from the Lunar Orbiter I.

SUCCESS OF GEMINI FLIGHTS left space experts exuberant. Astronauts demonstrated ability to maneuver, rendezvous, dock, walk and work in space and make precise landings. All this sets the stage for the $23 billion Apollo Project to put a man on the moon by 1970. Lunar Orbiter I transmitted an unusual photograph of the earth just as it was passing behind the moon. Lunar Orbiter II, scouting for landing places for the astronauts to come, took a candid of the Copernicus crater on the moon's surface, showing mountains rising 1,000-3,000 feet.

Rugged and barren surface of the moon.

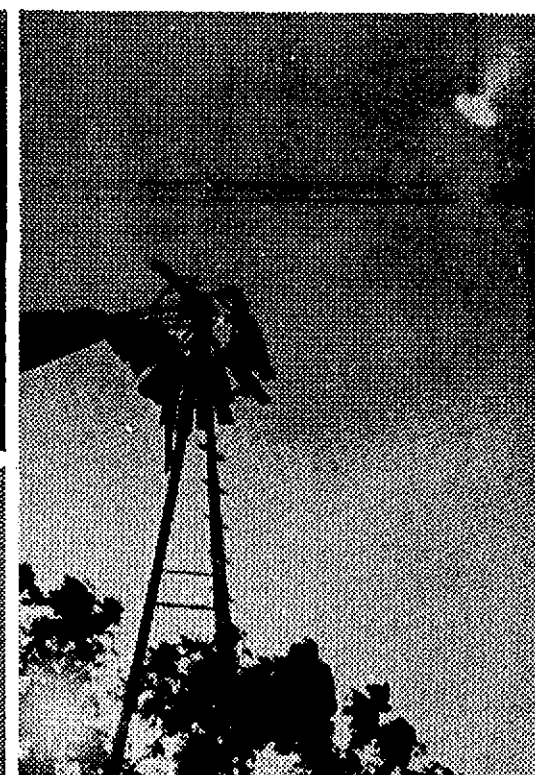

"HAWKS" and "doves" fought the war at home, the Selective Service system came under fire from many quarters but GIs (below) bled and died in the steamy, swampy jungles of Viet Nam and in the air above it. President Johnson, in a secret side trip from the Manila summit conference of Pacific and Southeast Asian allies, visited Cam Ranh Bay to express America's appreciation to the GIs—"We'll never let you down."

THIS HYDROGEN BOMB, the only one ever photographed for publication, was recovered intact from the craggy depths of the Mediterranean, the last of four jettisoned on and off southern Spain when a U. S. bomber and tanker collided in mid-air. The incident proved one thing: The nuclear age carries less accidental danger to the world than had been suspected.

THE ELEPHANT CAME TO LIFE as GOP gained 47 House seats, three Senate seats and eight governorships, notably, Ronald Reagan in California (top right) and George Romney in Michigan (lower right). Lurleen Wallace (above) stand-in for her ineligible husband, became Alabama's first lady.

THE UFO controversy was unresolved as many sightings of unidentified flying objects were reported. Object (above) reportedly is UFO over Hillsdale, Mich.

RACISM RAISED ITS UGLY HEAD as destructive Negro riots broke out in Los Angeles, Oakland, San Francisco, Chicago, Cleveland and Atlanta. Slum merchants and police were virtually helpless to protect property as, in the Cleveland scene above, looting went on under the very noses of authority. Arson and violence mounted to a degree which, in several cases, brought out National Guard units to restore order. Stokely Carmichael (inset) actively spread his gospel of "Black Power."

Walt Disney —
A Man Recognized
in His Own Time

The Star was going to press Thursday afternoon when AP flashed the word over our reprinter that Walt Disney was dead—and we barely managed to get it in a bulletin.

Of all the illustrious ones in world none meant more personally to the people than the me of the Chicago carpenter's who became a Hollywood star and a multi-millionaire. Disney was one authentic genius who was recognized—and rewarded—in his own time. He brought laughter to a sorry and frightened people. In a world in which suspicion and hatred and he preached the brotherhood of man through the example of the animal kingdom and the triumph of happy music.

Disney cinemas won 29 National Academy awards, and his pact abroad was so great that in American exhibitors nominated him for a Nobel prize. It was Disney alone who probably saved the American motion picture industry from extinction when the advent of television caught Hollywood making "out" movies that died at box office trying to come with its earlier and better films being shown "for free," those dark days for the cinema. It was Disney who bailed the book with the old truths and shed for the genuine laughter it brought folks back to the theater.

Everyone remembers "Snow White" and the droll family of King dwarfs. And almost equal-famous is his much-later feature "Perri"—the story of a squirrel and how the animal kingdom teaches its young the art of survival.

But it was the odds and ends his comedy shorts that won him his following from the very beginning. I remember one of the earliest cartoons named, I recall, "The Band Concert." Donald Duck was directing the me-town band in the village park. They were playing "The Future From William Tell"—one slap-happy animal musician kept swinging the band over to the foot-tapping strains of Dixie... While Donald turned his frustrated rage, it was as funny in Arabia as in the U. S. A.

Today the curtain is drawn. America's reverent silence matched by an equal stillness across the sea.

Eulogies to
Walt Disney
Pouring in

By GENE HANDSAKER
BURBANK, Calif., AP — A telephone operator at Walt Disney's film studio sobbed: "He wasn't a boss to us. He was a friendly man who loved us and we loved him."

Eulogies poured in also from the famous after death came yesterday to the onetime Missouri farm boy whose creative genius delighted a troubled world.

The producer died 10 days after his 65th birthday and 5 weeks after a lung operation on 7. An informed source told the Associated Press that the removed portion of the lung was cancerous and that the cancer had spread.

In 40 years Disney's enterprises ranged from such screen delights as Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck and Snow White to the world-famous amusement park, Disneyland—with more projects ever in the works.

Fred MacMurray, star of six Disney films, said, "The joy he brought spanned the barriers of language, customs and nationality."

$375 Million
Atom Smasher

WASHINGTON (AP) — West, Ill., was picked today as the site for a $375-million atom smasher.

Closing out a competition that had involved dozens of communities across the nation seeking the gigantic enterprise, the Atomic Energy Commission announced the choice.

The 200-billion-electron-volt proton accelerator is projected as the world's most powerful, designed to unravel many of the mysteries of the structure of matter.

Six sites to which the National Academy of Sciences had narrowed the choice have been under study by the commission since last March.

"All six sites would have been suitable locations for this project," AEC Chairman Glenn T. Seaborg said. "Each proposal had many strong points, making the selection of one site an extremely difficult task. However, after weighing all factors the commission unanimously decided that the West site, which is near Chicago and also near the Argonne National Laboratory, is the most suitable location for this large project."

Although Congress has authorized and appropriated money for scientific studies of the project, construction has not yet been authorized.

Cappolino
Acquitted of Murder Charge

BY DAVID ROSENZWEIG
FREETLED, W.N. J. AP — Dr. Carl Cappolino, acquitted of murder, is still not free, returns to his home state of Florida today to face yet another trial for his life.

Wracked with emotion, Cappolino, 34, was whisked from the Monmouth County Courthouse and returned Thursday after a jury found him innocent in the death of retired Army Lt. Col. William E. Farber.

Almost immediately, police authorities here made arrangements to fly the gaunt, dark-haired anesthetologist to Saratoga, Fla., where he is expected to go on trial in February on charge of murdering his wife, Carmela.

To Cappolino's attractive blue-eyed wife, Mary, 39, the New Jersey acquittal was a "blighted victory" with another legal battle awaiting her husband in Florida.

Cheery Scene
But Words
Were Sober

By RAYMOND J. CROWLEY
WASHINGTON AP — The scene was hopeful and cheery: a choir singing, the lights on a 70-foot red fir burning brightly at dusk.

But the words from President Johnson were sober Thursday as he lit the national Christmas tree: "The months ahead will not be easy ones in Vietnam, 'has been blunted' and 'peace with honor will surely follow.'"

A group of youths chanted "stop bombing Hanoi" as the President arrived for the ceremony and his second talk of the day on war and peace.

Hoffa Talks
Men Into Returning

DETROIT AP — Teamsters began returning to work today after a 24-hour walkout protesting a U. S. Supreme Court decision upholding the 1964 jury tampering conviction of their union's international president, James R. Hoffa. Hoffa had urged his men to go back to work.

A sampling of Detroit firms showed that 75 to 100 per cent of over-the-road, long-distance drivers had reported to work beginning with the midnight shift.

Hoffa flew into Detroit Thursday and ordered the Teamsters back to work. However, the 24-hour strike had been called at midnight Wednesday and was well under way.

It was early afternoon before Hoffa told some 1,200 cheering Teamsters here to go back to work. Few, if any, returned before midnight.

"Don't take the law in your own hands or you are going to hurt me," Hoffa told the workers at a hastily summoned meeting.

The strike developed Wednesday night at a meeting of Hoffa's home local, No. 299.

Trustee Use
Makes State
Responsible

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The attorney for a former inmate at the Cummins Prison Farm told the state Claims Commission Thursday that by using prisoners as trustees the state assumed responsibility for their actions.

Sid McMath of Little Rock, attorney for Leroy Jones, 42, of Gould, based his argument on a 1910 state Supreme Court decision and on a Georgia ruling involving Mickey Cohen, the underworld figure.

McMath said that in the 1910 case the court ruled that Lincoln County was responsible for a penal farm warden who fatally whipped an inmate. He said that in the Georgia case Cohen received $110,000 in damages for injuries inflicted by a psychotic inmate.

McMath said in both decisions the courts recognized the liability of the custodial agencies. He said that in Jones' case the penitentiary, in arming a convict, made him a servant of the state.

Jones seeks $50,000 for an ankle wound he suffered from a stray bullet fired by a trusty who killed another prisoner, wounded a third and killed himself last September.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Rain was in the picture for Arkansas today.

Showers fell in southwest Arkansas at a rate of .25 of an inch per hour and the precipitation area was moving in an east-northeasterly direction.

The U. S. Weather Bureau forecast considerable cloudiness through tonight with showers mostly in the south portion. The outlook for Saturday was partly cloudy and continued cool.

The forecast called for maximum temperatures today and Saturday generally in the 50s and nighttime lows in the upper 30s or low 40s.

Overnight lows ranged from 28 at Fayetteville to 40 at Fort Smith, Texarkana and El Dorado.

Precipitation during the 24 hours ended at 6 a.m. included .77 of an inch at Texarkana and a trace at El Dorado.

Connell to Help Train
Mission Teams

The Rev. F. Gladwin Connell, Methodist Little Rock Conference Director of Youth Work and former Associate Pastor of the Hope Methodist Church, has been invited by the General Board of Education at Nashville, Tenn., to help train the MYFund - World Mission teams which will serve throughout the U. S. next summer.

This is quite an honor in view of the fact that only one person in Methodism is asked each year to serve along with the General Board staff members for this training.

The Rev. Connell will spend two weeks in June helping train the MYFund - World Mission teams, will serve a week somewhere in the U. S. with some of the teams, and at the end of the summer will go to Nashville for evaluation of the work.

W. Neill Hart, Executive Secretary, Little Rock Conference Board of Education, said, "We in Arkansas have long recognized the excellent leadership which Gladwin is giving our youth; and we rejoice that his outstanding ability is also being recognized on a national scale."

Somebody Could Handle Safe

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. AP Businessman Phil Balyeat bought an old empty safe in a building marked for demolition.

Balyeat and two helpers managed to get the safe to the sidewalk—but they couldn't lift it aboard a truck. They sent for help. When they came back, the safe had disappeared.

Book Suit
Caused by Secret Meet

NEW YORK AP — A highly placed official in President John F. Kennedy's administration described today a secret conference which—inadvertently—may have led to Mrs. Kennedy's legal action to block publication of the book about the assassination of her husband.

"The question of a lawsuit was put down as a last resort," the former official said. "It was only mentioned."

He said he is sure that the publishers of the book learned of the sense of the meeting. And he said he believes they therefore concluded that they could resist further requests by Mrs. Kennedy for revisions or deletions in the manuscript of William Manchester's book, "Death of a President."

When efforts to compromise failed, he said, Mrs. Kennedy brought the suit. Her attorneys will charge breach of contract, arguing that the Kennedys have the book, as agreed upon in a "memorandum of understanding" signed by Manchester and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Further, Mrs. Kennedy objects to certain passages in the manuscript describing her emotions and actions in the aftermath of the tragedy in Dallas, one of her friends said.

The former official gave this version of the conference:

It was held last October in Sen. Kennedy's New York City apartment. It lasted five hours.

Mrs. Kennedy did not attend. Sen. Kennedy was present "only a short time."

The meeting was called "because things had reached a difficult state with respect to certain parts of the book. The summaries on them."

The group included Richard Goodwin, Theodore Sorensen, Pierre Salinger, Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr., Burke Marshall, James Greenfield, John Douglas and John Segenthaler, editor of the Nashville Tennessean.

Except for Segenthaler, all these present had held important positions in Kennedy's administration. Salinger, former White House press secretary, and Greenfield, former assistant secretary of state, considered the meeting of such importance that they flew to New York from California to attend.

A few of these at the conference had read the whole book. Others had read the parts of it which had come in dispute.

"Some of it was read in the meeting," the ex-official described the book as "beautifully written," adding, "There's a headline in every page."

But, he continued, referring to Manchester's two interviews with Mrs. Kennedy, "It's clear that Manchester took stuff from the tape recorder when Mrs. Kennedy was not in control of her emotions."

"Also, the book is a rather unfortunate picture of President Johnson."

Nonetheless, he said, the sense of the meeting was to try to work out compromises on the disputed passages and not to take the case to court.

"Until a couple of weeks ago," he said, "I had the impression that things were getting along pretty well on that. They must have run into a real snag."

He said he felt certain the publishers—Look magazine and Harper Row book publishers—got wind of the meeting and felt a lawsuit was unlikely. "I'm sure somebody called and told them about it," he said. He did not say who he thought might have leaked the information.

Group Wants
Moss Ousted

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A group of professional social workers has voted 26-11 to ask Governor-elect Winthrop Rockefeller to reconsider his decision to retain A. J. (Red) Moss as state welfare commissioner.

It was reported Thursday that the group believed Moss was out of step with a trend to make persons on welfare more independent through training and less dependent on welfare grants.

Despite Road-building
Slowdown Money Will Continue to Roll in

EDITOR'S NOTE: The announcement of federal plans for a slowdown in Interstate Highway construction caused The Star's editor to write in his Daily Bread column of Dec. 2 a request to the Little Rock Bureau of The Associated Press to ask the Washington (D.C.) Bureau for an article explaining the exact financing of the Interstate System.

The following dispatch was received here today.

By JOSEPH R. COYNE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — It takes 4 cents a gallon, that is—to provide the bulk of money used by the federal government to build the Interstate highway system, now more than half completed.

Despite the anti-inflationary slowdown in road building, the money to pay for it will continue to roll into the federal treasury faster than ever.

During the fiscal year ending June 30, the government expects to take in a record $4.04 billion in gasoline and other highway user taxes.

The money can be spent only to build highways because it's against the law to divert money from the highway trust fund for any other purpose, no matter how laudable.

Even the Highway Safety Program passed by Congress this year is not eligible to use trust fund money.

About 75 per cent of the trust fund's income results from the 4 cents per gallon federal tax on gasoline and diesel fuel.

The rest comes from a 10 cents per pound tax on tires and inner tubes; a 5 cents per pound tax on tread rubber; a 10 per cent excise tax on trucks, buses and trailers; a use tax on vehicles weighing more than 26,000 pounds, and taxes on lubricating oil, parts and accessories.

Under law, the highway trust fund must at least break even by the end of each fiscal year.

For the current fiscal year, the Bureau of Public Roads expects a surplus in the fund of $380 million, including a carry-over surplus of $243 million from the last fiscal year. It will spend $3.9 billion.

Next June's expected surplus is almost twice what the experts anticipated last spring. It

U. S. Flatly
Denies Hanoi
Bomb Charge

BY SEMOUR M. MERSH
WASHINGTON AP — The United States offered the world a flat denial today to North Vietnamese charges that American warplanes bombed inside the city limits of Hanoi Tuesday and Wednesday.

Statements from Saigon and Washington, designed to refute widely spread Communist reports that the United States has begun a new escalation of the Vietnamese war, claimed that: A review of reconnaissance photos showed that all bombs fell on designated targets: a truck depot two miles south of the city limits and a railroad yard five miles northeast of the city. The photos showed, the U. S. Military Command in Saigon said today, that no bombs fell within the city as shown on a 1965 north Vietnamese map.

A U. S. Military Command review of pilots' reports on the strikes showed that American warplanes struck only the scheduled target areas. "I didn't see a single bomb off target," said Lt. J. G. John Eason, 25, of Philadelphia, one of the pilots who raided the truck park.

Reports from foreigners living in Hanoi indicated there almost certainly were no deliberate attacks inside the city by American planes, although some homes were badly damaged. The reports, made available by U. S. officials here, also showed that the foreigners believed the damage was caused by North Vietnamese antiaircraft missiles or unexploded antiaircraft shells.

When work on a tract is completed, a state presents its bill to the bureau for reimbursement and the money actually changes hands—90 per cent of the cost for an interstate system highway and 50 per cent for other federally aided roads.

The states must pay the remainder and the entire cost of maintaining the road after it's built.

Cites Revenue
Loss If Tax
Is Deducted

LITTLE ROCK AP — Any proposal to allow a deduction for federal income taxes before figuring state individual or corporate income taxes would result in a revenue loss of $15 million annually to Arkansas, J. Bill Becker, president of the state AFL-CIO, said Thursday.

However, he said in a prepared statement that revenues paid to the federal government would actually increase.

Becker said the AFL-CIO would oppose any such proposal.

Rep. Chadd Durrett of Union County announced Wednesday that one of two tax-cut bills he plans to submit in the 1967 legislature would allow the taxpayer to deduct for state income tax purposes the money he has paid in federal income tax. The other would reduce the license fee for automobile and pickup trucks by $3.

Police Chiefs
Would Keep Death Penalty

MARIANNA, Ark. (AP) — The president of the Arkansas Association of Chiefs of Police said Thursday the group would meet Jan. 5 and draft a resolution calling on the legislature to retain the death penalty.

Chief Jack Kelley of Marianna said he had little doubt that the resolution would pass at the Little Rock meeting.

Kelly praised the Arkansas Prosecuting Attorneys Association for endorsing the death penalty. He added that every policeman he had discussed capital punishment with strongly favored the death penalty.

He said, however, that he realized that the death penalty often is inequitable.

The capital punishment issue was raised recently by Governor-elect Winthrop Rockefeller, who said he probably would ask the next legislature to abolish the death penalty. Ted Boswell, a Little Rock lawyer who favors abolition, challenged the prosecutors' association Wednesday to debate the subject.
